

TYPE RATING COURSES (IN PROGRESS)

Even if you don't want a full technical course on the aircraft, you may want to provide your management, or your office staff, or even your pilots, with a general aircraft familiarization course for that new type of aircraft.

Aerogates will find the appropriately skilled instructor, develop the training and assessment materials and make all other arrangements.

Alternatively, why not use Aerogates to train one or more of your experienced engineers in the skills of efficient and effective teaching?

Then you will have your own in-house Type Training provision. See Instructor Training for details.

Aerogates will even write all the training manuals and develop the training aids which your chosen instructors will need.

